

The National Agricultural Law Center

The nation's leading source for agricultural and food law research & information

NationalAgLawCenter.org | nataglaw@uark.edu

State Meat Inspection Laws: Connecticut

The state of Connecticut does not have a state inspection program. As a result, all inspected facilities within the state are governed by USDA/FSIS regulations and guidance as to the facility and practice requirements.

However, Connecticut does still have relevant statutory language regarding slaughter. That language is located at:

Conn. Gen. Stat. Tit. 22, Ch. 432

This material is based upon work supported by the National Agricultural Library, Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture

The information contained in this document is provided for educational purposes only. It is not legal advice, and is not a substitute for the potential need to consult with a competent attorney licensed to practice law in the appropriate jurisdiction.